

GGP is winner of the American Association of Law Libraries' 2003 Public Access to Government Information Award

A screenshot of the Georgia Government Publications website. The header includes the logo and navigation links: Home, About, Acknowledgements, FAQ, and Help. A search bar is visible on the left with a "Go" button. The main content area is titled "Georgia Government Publications" and contains a description of the database, a list of resources, and a section titled "From the collection . . ." with a small image of a stream. The footer of the screenshot mentions the 2003 award.

Developed in 1996 as GALILEO's first digital conversion initiative and redesigned in 2009, the Georgia Government Publications (GGP) database serves as a digital repository of over 47,000 documents and publications released by agencies of Georgia's executive branch.

In addition to archiving Georgia state publications from 1994 to the present, GGP is currently adding pre-1994 serials on an ongoing basis. The following titles have already been added:

- * Georgia Agricultural Facts, 1900-present
- * Georgia Department of Agriculture Annual Report, 1874-2003
- * Georgia Department of Education Annual Report, 1871-1976
- * Georgia Department of Revenue Statistical Report, 1932-present
- * Georgia Governors' Messages, 1872-1975
- * Georgia Official and Statistical Register <http://dlg.galileo.usg.edu/statregister>
- * Georgia State Highway Maps, 1921-present
- * Georgia Vital Statistics, 1949-2006
- * Governor's Budget Report, 1932-33, 1963-present
- * Journals of the Georgia House of Representatives, 1975, 1980-present
- * Journals of the Georgia Senate, 1975, 1980, 1981-present
- * Official State of Georgia Tabulation by Counties, 1950-1994
- * SCORP (Georgia Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan) reports, 1968-present
- * Summary of General Statutes Enacted, 1977-present

November Newsletter

Homeless Awareness Week November 1 - 7, 2009

The homeless and their health care is always an important issue, but maybe more so as the weather turns colder and flu season strikes. Those without shelter risk hypothermia and frostbite. Those who find temporary shelter risk catching and spreading seasonal flu, 2009 H1N1 and tuberculosis. Practicing good hygiene by washing hands frequently or receiving flu shots are some of the best ways to prevent illness in a shelter.

To hear more about issues that affect the homeless, listen to the November edition of the Georgia Wellcast and learn about Homeless Awareness Week. Click on the Wellcast icon to the right.

No Home Often Means No Health Care

Homelessness is a complex issue. It affects many different people from very different backgrounds. It targets individuals as well as families. It forces some to seek transitional shelters, while others live unsheltered. Homelessness is a temporary situation for many, but for others it is their way of life.
