

GALILEO and Digital Media Projects

GALILEO 2011 Award for Best Use of GALILEO Resources
In A Project Submitted to the Georgia Student Media Festival

Use GALILEO in your Student Media Projects and Win a Flip Video Camcorder!

Entries must make use of GALILEO resources and cite those resources in the bibliography or citations list

GALILEO Resources: www.galileo.usg.edu

The resources available to K12 via GALILEO include but are not limited to the EBSCOhost databases, Britannica, the Digital Library of Georgia, the New Georgia Encyclopedia, and Oxford Art Online. The "Where I'm From in GALILEO" lesson plan is a great standards-based activity to produce an eligible student media project.

- GALILEO includes images, maps, videos, diagrams, and primary source materials
- GALILEO helps to clarify source and authority of materials
- GALILEO supports essential skills of information literacy, critical thinking, and copyright awareness

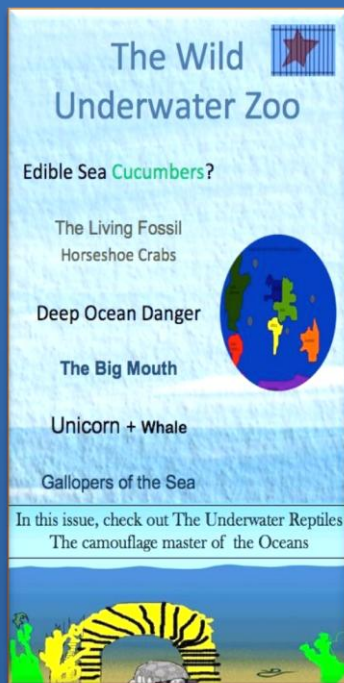

Where I'm From in GALILEO

- Attend the "Where I'm From in GALILEO" lesson plan webinar on November 30.

Register: <http://help.galileo.usg.edu/librarians/training/>

- "Where I'm From in GALILEO" lesson plan and instructions: http://help.galileo.usg.edu/educators/where_im_from_in_galileo/

- Georgia Student Media Festival <http://www.gait-inc.org/GSMF/index.htm>

The Wild Underwater Zoo is a digital magazine developed by Vicky Tettelbach's fourth grade class from Hopkins Elementary School in Gwinnett County. The project won the GALILEO staff prize for the best use of GALILEO resources in a student media project at the 2010 Georgia Student Media Festival.

