Preserving and Digitizing GGC History

This project involves the preservation of college publications in General Space, GGC's Institutional Repository, with the intention of mining them for key historical events of the institution. Starting with The Globe student newspaper, two GGC librarians located, inventoried, OCRed, digitized, applied metadata and uploaded files to the repository. Historical timeline software will be investigated and adopted to create an interactive version of GGC history.

Catherine Downey, Associate Professor and Head of Access Services and Information Commons, and Amy Eklund, Assistant Professor and Head of Collections, are librarians at Kaufman Library with experience in college archives, digital projects, and with liaison responsibilities for the School of Liberal Arts.

Reached out to The Globe staff and advisors; inventory, gather issues (print and blog articles online)

Scan, OCR, digitize, preserve blog articles

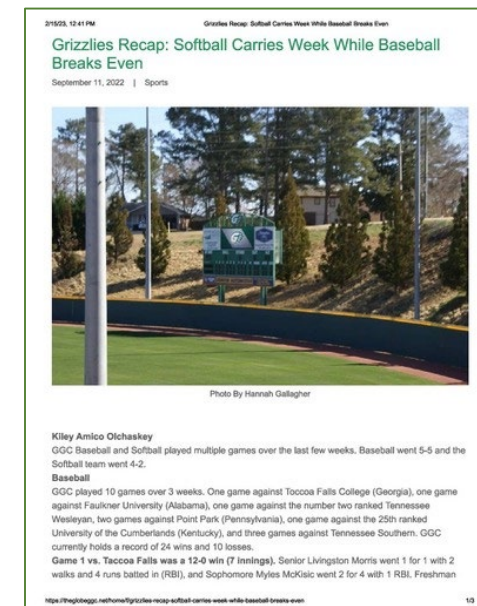

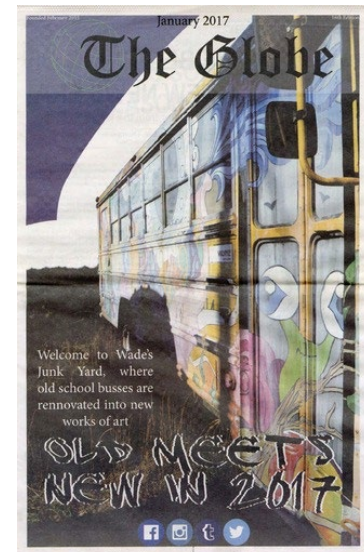

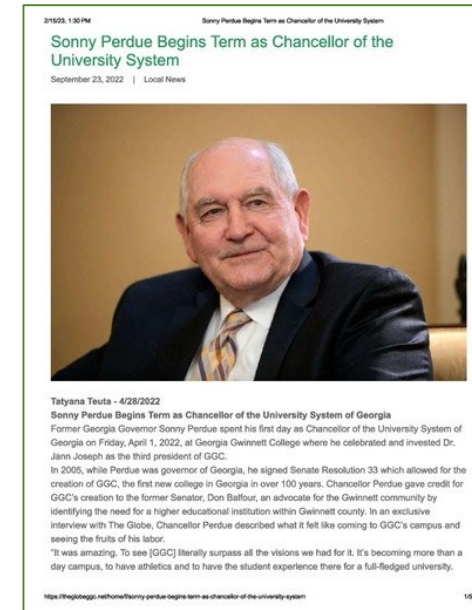

Create metadata and revise; upload to General Space

Review corpus created for dates and events; create timeline and disseminate information

Repeat process with Engage, Leading Edge, and other college publications

The Georgia Gwinnett College (GGC) men's tennis team delivered decisive victories in the 2023 Grizzly Invitational. As play commenced on the 17th until the 19th of February, the Grizzlies went undefeated against the top 15 opponents. Coach Hannah Keeling commented on the invitational play, "Each year it's important to see them perform under pressure with multiple matches throughout the weekend, which provides valuable experience for them."

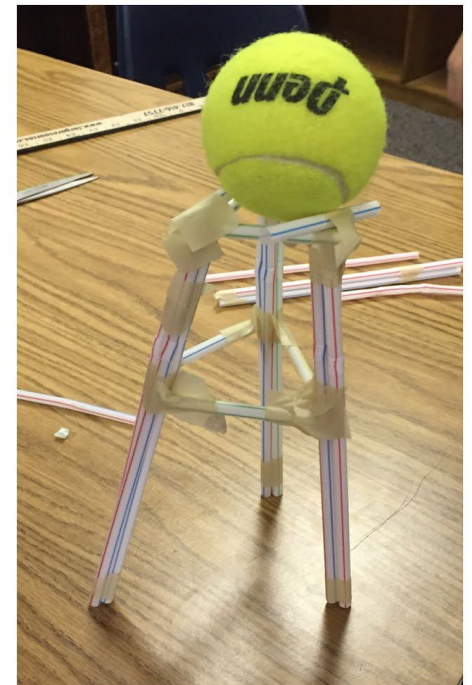

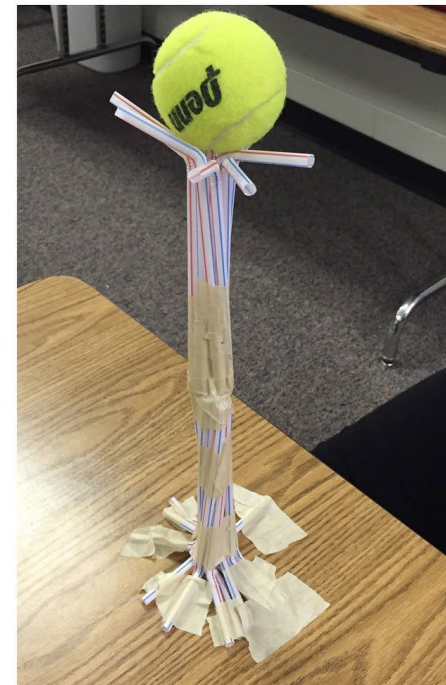

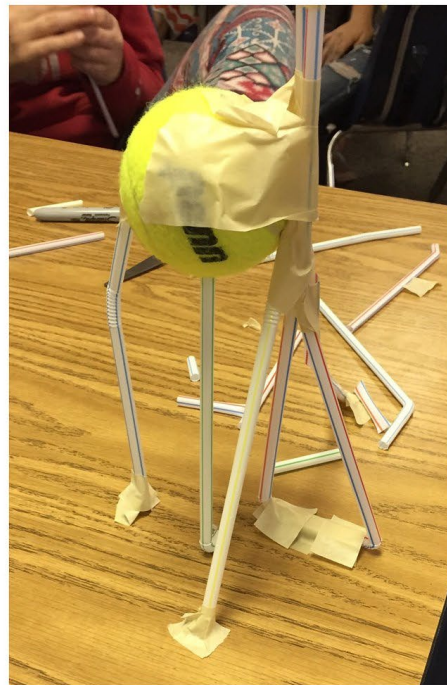

Feb. 17 vs. No. 8 Lindsey Wilson College (Kentucky) was a 4-0 victory. On Friday, the Grizzlies faced No. 8 Lindsey Wilson College (Kentucky) to open the invitation, snatching a 4-0 victory. Extreme winds and icy temperatures made play tough. A quick doubles point was secured by victories from the new combinations of Alex Gurmendi and Dhakshineswar Suresh (6-0) and reigning ITA national championship pair, Jose Dugo and Leonardo Sprovieri (6-2). Singles' play proved to follow a similar Sonny Perdue, GGC Foundation Chair Glenn White, Board of Regents Chair Allan Vigil, USG Chief of Staff Rob Watts and U.S. Representative John Linder.

On the Leading Edge of 21st Century Education

by Jeff Corbin

Years of planning and preparation will culminate this August when more than 1,000 freshman, transfer and returning students fill the classrooms of Georgia Gwinnett College (GGC) – the nation's first public, four-year college to open in the new century.

Standing up a new college takes time. State lawmakers said GGC President Daniel J. Kaufman. "Our graduates will become the trendsetters and leaders of the next several generations. Students attending GGC will be making history."

The college is making full use of its extensive online presence – www.ggc.usg.edu – to expedite enrollment as well as to help build a sense of community. Additionally,
