

The city of Milledgeville was established in 1803, specifically to serve as the new centrally located capital of the state. According to historian James C. Bonner in Milledgeville: Georgia's Antebellum Capital, "newspaper editors and printers were relatively numerous and formed an important and highly respected segment of the town's early society."

The screenshot shows the website's search and browse interface. At the top, it features the logo 'GEORGIA HISTORIC NEWSPAPERS: Milledgeville' and navigation links for 'Home', 'About', and 'Help'. Below this is a welcome message: 'Welcome to the Milledgeville Historic Newspapers Archive'. The main section is titled 'Search' and contains several input fields and options:

- 'Search newspapers for' with a text input field.
- A checkbox labeled 'return pages with any of these words'.
- 'Don't show results with' with a text input field.
- 'Terms must be within' with a dropdown menu set to 'words of each other'.
- 'Limit by year' with a dropdown menu set to 'All available'.
- 'Limit by title' with a dropdown menu set to 'All available'.
- 'Search' and 'Search Tips' buttons.

 Below the search section is a 'Browse' section with a 'Read issues by year' dropdown menu set to 'Select'.
