The Southern Israelite Archive spans the years 1929-1986. Although Rabbi H. Cerf Straus established the Southern Israelite as a temple bulletin in Augusta in 1925, it soon became quite popular and was eventually moved to Atlanta. Circulation increased until it spread throughout the South. Its coverage included the news of the southern Jewry as well as issues that involved Jewish populations throughout the nation and world. In 1987, the paper changed its name from the Southern Israelite to the Atlanta Jewish Times. Today, it is owned by Jewish Renaissance Media and continues as a weekly publication.
