  • GALILEO Updates

    • Russell Palmer reviewed the GALILEO Activities Report.

    • GALILEO Annual Conference

    • The GALILEO Annual Conference is scheduled for Thursday July 12, 2018.

    • E-Resources Committee

    • OpenAthens

    • We are continuing to work on the technical, legal, and contract aspects of OpenAthens, including sole source, which should be approved soon.

    • Other updates—Ex Libris/Summon/EDS

    • Lucy Harrison presented an offer from Ex Libris, which is giving us the opportunity to use Summon for discovery at no additional cost to all GALILEO libraries across the state. In order to evaluate this, we would need to institute a technical, quality, and functionality review and comparison of Summon and EDS, starting with the EResources committee. Support for content, cost benefit analysis, usability, linking were all suggested as factors to consider. What would we do with additional funds? Should we consider having an outside consultant evaluate this? It was suggested that we might use savings to just reduce overall costs. It was decided that the E-Resources Committee would review and evaluate this proposal, and would coordinate with the GIL OPAC Committee Together to investigate and report. A motion was made and seconded, and unanimously passed.

    • Survey results review

    • Lucy shared highlights from the survey results and review. Overall, positive feedback. 613 survey responses were received, about half of the participant responses from last year. Lucy pointed out that mobile usage could be higher, social media usage was reviewed, and comments about authentication and web page changes were considered. A question was asked about how we reach those who are not GALILEO users. It was suggested that we might run a facebook ad to target non-users. It was suggested that we evaluate if teachers using project (problem?) based learning and if it has had an impact on research/GALILEO usage.

- ROI/Metrics discussion

Discussions over the past few meeting about the value of GALILEO and the best way to represent that value that moves beyond usage statistics. Lucy presented a chart that suggested metrics through three “lenses” for each functional area:

Usage, Savings, and Impact.

Lucy and GALILEO staff drafted the suggested metrics, found here.

It was suggested that we continue to work on and refine this documentation and the metrics. Lucy will refine and send to GALSTEER for feedback on specifics.

Saving effort is definitely challenging to gauge.
